Role: Freelance Business Development & Client Acquisition

Dear Founder,

As a proactive and fully independent Lead Generation Specialist, I was immediately drawn to the freelance Business Development role at Amie Creative Studio. I specialize in building outreach pipelines from scratch, making me a strong fit for taking ownership of your client acquisition process on a flexible, commission-based model.

Through my own independent practice, I have extensively researched target markets and sourced over 500 B2B prospects. By managing a highly organized CRM pipeline and reaching out via LinkedIn and email, I consistently generated 5–10 qualified leads per week. My core strength lies in identifying a brand's specific needs, initiating genuine conversations, and arranging qualified discovery calls. In fact, a significant part of my recent workflow involved identifying pain points in e-commerce businesses and connecting them with creative web development and CRO agencies, giving me direct experience bridging the gap between brands and creative service providers.

While I am based remotely in Spain rather than the Netherlands, I am highly comfortable working independently and driving my own outreach initiatives. I would welcome the opportunity to connect and discuss how my proactive lead generation process can help Amie Creative Studio scale its client base.

Sincerely,

Daniil Kotelevets
