Company: FitnessKPI

Role: Business Development Representative (BDR) – Bilingüe Inglés

Dear Hiring Team,

As a proactive and coachable Business Development Representative based in Spain, I was immediately drawn to the BDR role at FitnessKPI. My background is deeply rooted in B2B SaaS lead generation, and I have spent the last year specifically targeting decision-makers in the US market. Being fully fluent in English and completely flexible to adapt to US timezones, I am eager to act as the spearhead for FitnessKPI's international expansion into the US and Australia.

Through my independent lead generation practice, I have built complete outbound pipelines targeting US business owners. Using tools like Apollo.io, LinkedIn Sales Navigator, and Make.com, I systematically identified key decision-makers and managed rigorous, personalized outreach sequences. This allowed me to source over 500 highly qualified prospects and consistently generate 5–10 qualified leads per week. I am deeply familiar with evaluating technical fit and managing complex sales funnels strictly within HubSpot and Salesforce.

While my outbound methodology relies heavily on scalable, automated digital channels (Email and LinkedIn) rather than traditional cold calling, my "hunter" mentality and ability to qualify strategic opportunities remain identical. I thrive on testing scripts, overcoming objections, and generating high-value demos for Account Executives.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my data-driven outreach experience can accelerate FitnessKPI's growth in the global market.

Sincerely,

Daniil Kotelevets
