Company: NextBlog

Role: Comercial B2B Autónomo

Dear Quim,

As a highly ambitious B2B Sales Specialist operating as a registered Autónomo in Spain, I was immediately drawn to the 100% variable commercial role at NextBlog. I thrive in remote, uncapped commission environments where I have the freedom to organize my own activity and take full ownership of the sales process from initial contact to final closing.

Through my independent practice, I have built complete B2B outbound pipelines targeting SMEs and decision-makers in the web and digital marketing sectors. A key driver of my success has been leveraging automation tools like Make.com and Instantly.ai to streamline repetitive CRM updates and scale personalized outreach, allowing me to focus entirely on qualifying leads and conducting commercial meetings. Using this system, I successfully sourced over 500 prospects and secured discovery meetings where I presented tailored value propositions to business owners.

While my primary outbound engine is built on automated Email and LinkedIn strategies rather than traditional cold calling, my ability to identify client needs, handle objections, and rigorously follow up remains the same. Because I am highly fluent in Spanish and deeply familiar with the B2B web services ecosystem, I am fully equipped to defend NextBlog's value proposition. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how I can leverage my automated workflow and commercial drive to close new clients for NextBlog.

Sincerely,

Daniil Kotelevets
