Dear Olivia,

As a highly self-motivated professional accustomed to operating independently in a remote, performance-based environment, I was immediately drawn to the 1099 Business Development position at The Hirsh Agency. I excel in autonomous roles where pipeline organization and consistent follow-up directly drive earning potential.

Recently, I built and managed an independent lead generation pipeline from scratch. I sourced and qualified over 500 prospects, utilizing rigorous CRM management to ensure consistent follow-ups and clear next steps. By carefully identifying prospect needs and focusing on structured communication, I consistently generated 5–10 qualified leads per week and scheduled discovery meetings with busy US business owners.

While my background has primarily been in B2B outbound lead generation rather than life insurance, the core mechanics of my success are identical: maintaining a highly organized pipeline, identifying prospect needs accurately, and securing the next conversation. I am extremely coachable and eager to leverage your training and mentorship to learn the financial protection industry. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my disciplined follow-up approach and organizational skills can translate to success at The Hirsh Agency.

Sincerely,

Daniil Kotelevets
