Dear Rhona Yi,

WIN SOURCE's mission to help OEMs and manufacturers navigate component shortages and EOL risks requires a Sales Manager who is highly proactive in independent customer development. As a B2B sales professional based in Spain, I am ready to drive that regional growth and manage your key accounts.

Currently running my own independent B2B sales practice (CLG Project), I take full ownership of the sales cycle. I specialize in finding high-potential B2B customers, understanding their unique operational challenges, and guiding them from initial contact and quotation through to negotiation and order conversion. I utilize advanced digital prospecting tools (like Apollo.io and Make.com) and rigorous CRM discipline to maintain a consistent pipeline of highly qualified B2B opportunities.

While my background is primarily rooted in digital B2B sales rather than traditional semiconductor distribution, the fundamental mechanics of engaging procurement teams, managing complex RFQs, and executing commercial negotiations are identical. My technical background in Multimedia Engineering ensures I can rapidly understand the electronic component ecosystem and position WIN SOURCE's global logistics network as a massive value-add to OEMs.

I am fully authorized to work in Spain, fluent in English and Spanish, and ready to independently manage sales opportunities for WIN SOURCE.

Sincerely,

Daniil Kotelevets
